Let's Start!

We are all leaders!

Learning Outcome

Describe necessity, duty, advice, or strong disapproval in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about education and character traits.
- I can strongly state my position.
- I can express what is and isn't necessary in the present.

Ask your partner:

- What are the qualities of a good leader?
- Do you think you would make a good leader? Explain.

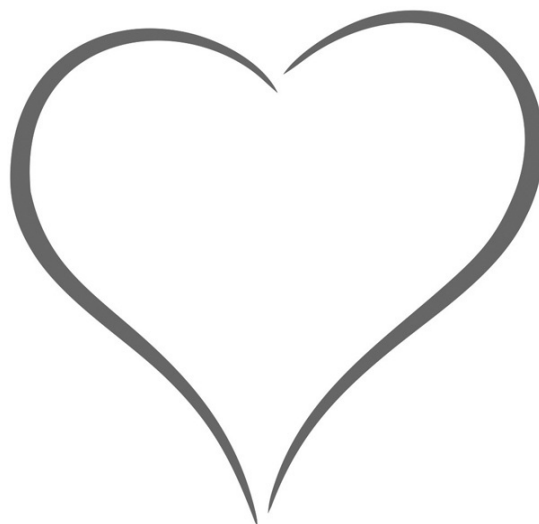

Let's Explore!

Amy teaches people to enhance their leadership skills!

* "To enhance" means to fill out or add to something to make it better.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Amy: Today's workshop is going to focus on leadership. We have to enhance our creativity and open up to the possibility of becoming effective leaders. That is to say, we will take a closer look at becoming assertive and communicating more fluidly. In order to have credibility as leaders, we have to first know what our motivations are. Second, we must create a vision for the future. Third, we have to communicate that vision in a way that inspires others. Motivation and inspiration are the first things to identify. I want everyone to try to define what motivates them to live, breathe and succeed. So let's start with you, Will.

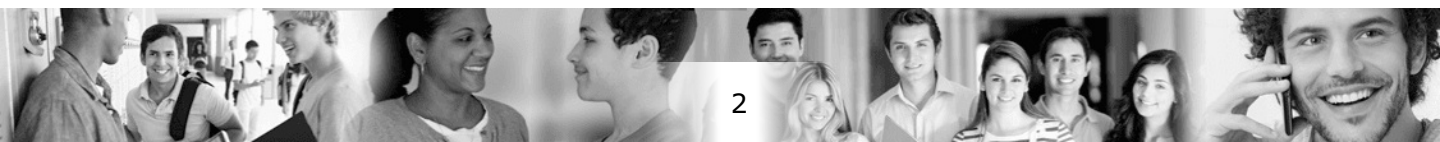

Will: As far as I'm concerned, love is a huge motivator. To be more precise, being loved is a motivator. I mean, I would say that I'm the type of person who needs to be loved. I'm sure most of us do ... and money is another huge incentive. Am I on the right track?

Amy: Definitely.

Vanessa: When I was at school, I realized I was driven by the idea of getting rewards and praise. Now, I think that is a bit negative.

Amy: Not necessarily. To be honest, many of us feel that way. We are social animals who need to be part of a pack, after all. The approval of others is very important, but it must not be to the detriment of one's own moral fiber.

Vanessa: I agree with you there. To my mind, if your values are not solid and ethical, you could be in trouble.

Let's Practice!

What does he need to do to achieve his goal?

Instructions: Organize the words to find the mystery sentence. Write the sentences correctly. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. his / entrance / to / He / creativity. / has

2. are. / know / first / to / has / his / He / motivations / what

3. a / the / for / future. / create / must / vision / He

4. in a / to communicate / inspires others. / He has / that vision / way that

5. be to / moral fibre. / The approval / must not / of one's own / the detriment

Let's Practice!

How important is love?

Instructions: Use the words from the Word Bank to correctly complete the sentences. Use capital letters where necessary.

Word Bank

5. _____ if you don't feel loved, you could be in trouble.

Extension Activity

Create a questionnaire about leadership.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Discuss the qualities of a good leader. (What must a leader be like?)
- In a group, think of 8 to 14 questions that can be answered to find out if someone has leadership qualities.
- Write down the questions.
- Ask someone in another group to answer the questions orally.
- Take notes on their answers.
- Compare the notes of the answers from different people and decide who is a leader among them.

Learning Points

Expressing Your Position In Different Situations

You use discourse markers to express your position and to show how ideas are connected. You use different discourse markers for different situations.

Discourse markers can show a connection to what you want to say and what was said before. They can also show your position and opinion on a particular situation. Look at the chart for some common discourse markers

Discourse Marker	Meaning
That is to say	Adding explanation
As far as I'm concerned	Expressing one's point of view
To be more precise	Emphasizing one's explanation
To be honest	Adding explanation
To my mind	Stating one's personal view
In fact	Emphasizing and adding
On top of that	Adding
Moreover	Adding
In addition	Adding

When writing, you use a comma after the discourse marker.

Examples:

- That is to say, we will take a closer look at becoming assertive and communicating more fluidly.
- As far as I'm concerned, love is a huge motivator.
- To be honest, many of us feel that way.

Learning Points

Expressing Necessity in the Present

You use the modals must and have (got) to to express necessity in the present. You use the negative forms of the modals need to and have to to express absence of necessity in the present.

Must refers to a necessary condition that comes from the subject and may be directed at the subject or the person the subject is talking to or about. It is used to express a strong necessity.

Example:

We must create a vision for the future.

Have (got) to expresses external obligations, which come from outside of the subject. These may be rules and regulations over which the subject has no control. It is used to express necessity in a lower degree than with must.

Example:

We have to make some changes.

Absence of necessity is expressed with the negative form of have to, not with mustn't.

Example:

You don't have to own everything in life to be happy.

Here is a list of modals of necessity:

Modal	Meaning	Example
have to	necessity lack of necessity (negative)	We have to make some changes. You don't have to own everything to be happy in life.
must	strong necessity prohibition (negative)	We must create a plan. It must not be to the detriment of one's own moral fiber.

Examples:

- We have to enhance our creativity and open up the possibility of becoming effective leaders.
- We must create a vision for the future.
- We have to communicate that vision in a way that inspires others.
