

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's be mindful!

Learning Outcome

Describe necessity, duty, advice, or strong disapproval in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about education and character traits.
- I can express what is and isn't necessary in the present and in the past.
- I can clarify my opinion.

Ask your partner:

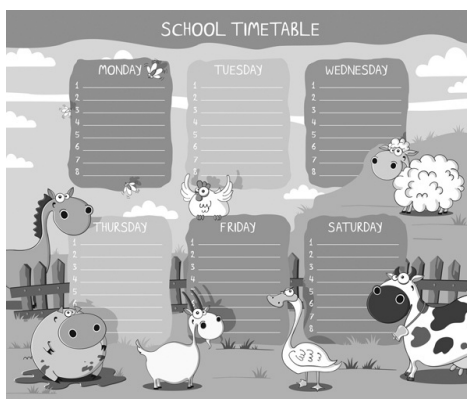

- What do you know about the practice of meditation? Would you try it or recommend it?
- What other things can you do to feel more relaxed?

Let's Explore!

Vanessa registers for her new courses!

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Vanessa: Hi. I'm here to register for my classes.

Registrar: First you must present three pieces of ID and a document from your last school, as well as your student number.

Vanessa: Which document?

Registrar: I'm referring to the transcript from your last school.

Vanessa: Okay. Do I have to have proof of address?

Registrar: No. These are fine. Okay, so which courses have you selected in your program?

Vanessa: I have selected the three core courses that I have to take, but not the electives. To be honest I'm not sure if I should choose Food and Beverage Management because I took something similar at Culinary school.

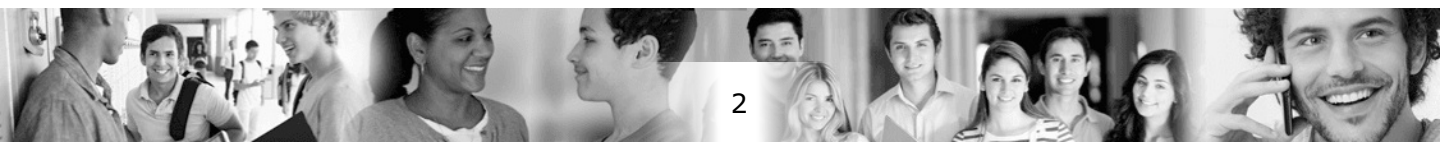

Registrar: If you take Food and Beverage you'll learn a lot about budgeting, specifically for smaller restaurants.

Vanessa: It seems to me that would be beneficial. I'll sign up for that elective and the one called Advanced Wine Studies and Management before they are full.

Registrar: Okay, I must inform you that, as of today, if you drop or withdraw from that course in particular, you won't receive a refund. When you commit to that course, it's permanent, because it is so popular and limited to a small number of students. As soon as you are enrolled in all five courses, you will receive confirmation via email.

Vanessa: In case I forget, will you tell me which courses have the biggest work load?

Registrar: Yes. If you ask me, Management and Food operations seems the heaviest. By that I mean that there are numerous reports, essays and seminars. Many students have found it difficult to take a full course load when that course is part of it. You have to keep on top of your assignments and you must not get behind. Well, you're all set! Before you leave please use the computer in the foyer and enter your student number to activate enrollment.

Let's Practice!

Vanessa needs to get familiar with vocabulary related to registering at her college.

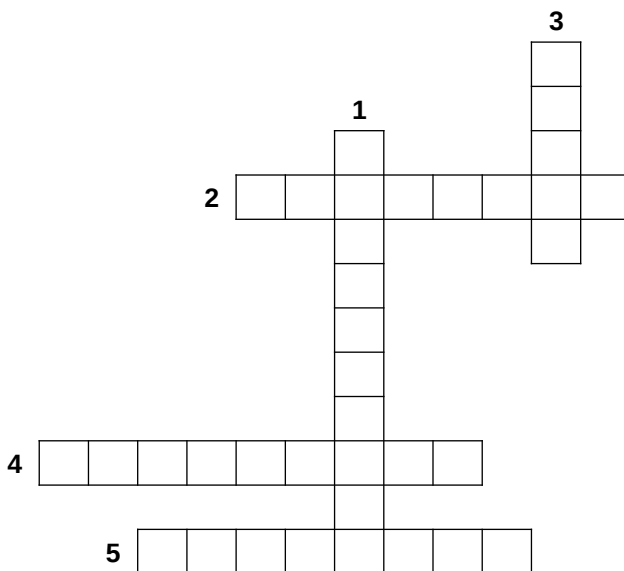

Instructions: Read the clues to complete the crossword. Write the word in the corresponding box.

Down

1. An exact written copy of something, as in grades from University, college or high school.
3. A short piece of writing on a particular subject, especially one done by students as part of the work for a course.

Across

2. The amount of work to be done, especially when talking about a course or studies in general.
4. The process of calculating how much money you must earn or save during a particular period of time, and of planning how you will spend it.
5. a course that is part of a program at a university, but that is not part of a main program

Let's Practice!

The secretary is explaining important information to Vanessa.

Instructions: Classify the sentences into the correct category.

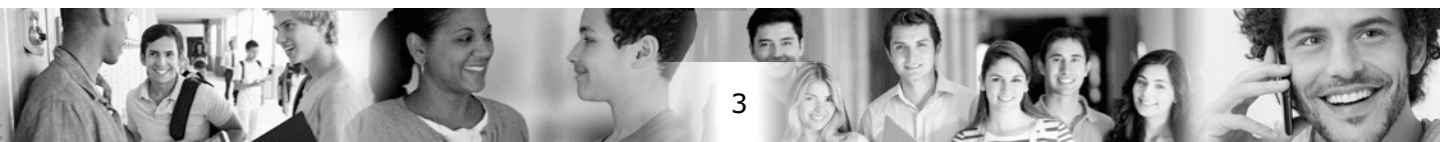

- | | |
|--|--|
| <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a) You can register to elective courses if you want. b) You have to keep on top of your assignments. c) You may choose to drop the course within one week. | <ol style="list-style-type: none"> d) Before you leave please use the computer. e) After finishing the course, please let us know. |
|--|--|

Necessary

--

Not Necessary

--

Extension Activity

Explain the registration process to a friend.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Select a course you would like to take abroad. Choose a country of your preference.
- Surf the internet to find out what the registration process is and what the course requirements are. Write them down.
- Prepare a presentation explaining the registration process and course requirements.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I read about education registration.

☐ ☐

I express what's necessary in registering for a school, college, etc.

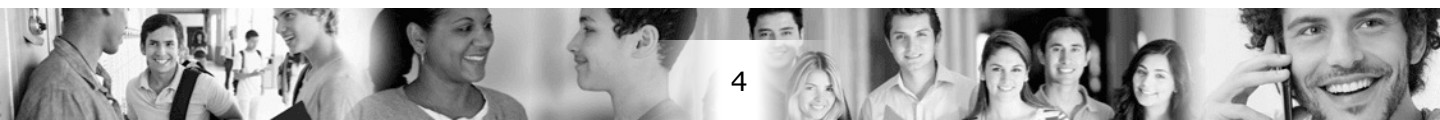

☐ ☐

I present the registration process and requirements for taking a course abroad.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- transcript (noun): an exact written copy of something, as in grades from University, college or high school e.g. You must present three pieces of ID and a transcript from your last school.
- budgeting (noun): the process of calculating how much money you must earn or save during a particular period of time, and of planning how you will spend it e.g. If you take Food and Beverage you'll learn a lot about budgeting.
- proof of address (noun): an official paper that states your name and current address to prove where you live e.g. Do I have to have proof of address?
- to drop a course (expression): to officially say you will no longer be attending a class e.g. I must inform you that, as of today, if you drop that course in particular, you won't receive a refund.
- full course load (noun): the maximum number of courses you can take in a semester e.g. Many students have found it difficult to take a full course load when that course is part of it.
- workload (noun): the amount of work to be done, especially by a particular person or machine in a period of time e.g. Will you tell me which courses have the biggest work load?
- essay (noun): a short piece of writing on a particular subject, especially one done by students as part of the work for a course e.g. That course has numerous reports, essays and seminars.
- to keep on top of (expression): to stay well-informed about the status of someone or something.
e.g. You have to keep on top of your assignments and you must not get behind.
- to be all set (expression): to be prepared, ready, or primed to begin or complete a task at hand e.g. Well, you're all set!
- to withdraw from a course (expression): to officially stop taking a course e.g. I must inform you that, as of today, if you withdraw from that course in particular, you won't receive a refund.

Learning Points

Expressing Necessity in the Present and in the Past

You use the modals must and have (got) to to express necessity in the present and in the past.

You use the negative forms of the modals need to and have to to express absence of necessity in the present.

Must refers to a necessary condition that comes from the subject and may be directed at the subject or the person the subject is talking to or about. It is used to express a strong necessity.

Example:

First, you must present three pieces of ID.

Have (got) to refers to an obligation, which comes from someone / something other than the subject. This could be a rule or a regulation that the subject has no power to change. It expresses urgency and necessity, but to a lesser degree than must does.

Example:

If you want to pass this course, you have to keep on top of your assignments.

To express the absence of necessity, you use the negative form of have to (don't have to), not mustn't.

Example:

You don't have to select all your core subjects this semester.

You can only express necessity in the past with the modal have to.

Structure:

subject + had to + infinitive

Example:

I had to drop out of one of my classes last semester.

You can express the absence of necessity with the negative form of have to in the past.

To do this, you use the structure: :

subject + didn't + have/need + infinitive.

Example:

Food and Beverage Management was an easy course. I didn't have to work too hard on that subject.

Absence of necessity can also be expressed by negative form of need.

Examples:

Learning Points

- First you must present three pieces of ID and a document from your last school, as well as your student number.
- Do I have to have proof of address?
- I have selected the three core courses that I have to take.
- I must inform you that, as of today, if you drop or withdraw from that course in particular
...

Clarifying your opinion

You use linking expressions to express your position and to show how ideas are connected. You use linking expressions to clarify your opinion.

Discourse markers can show a connection to what you want to say and what was said before. They can also show your position and opinion on a particular situation. Linking expressions are used to further explain and clarify your opinion or position on a subject. They follow a previous statement or sentence and build on that idea.

Example:

By this I mean ...

I'm referring to ...

To be honest ...

That is to say ...

Examples:

- I'm referring to the transcript from your last school.
- By that I mean that there are numerous reports, essays and seminars.
- To be honest I'm not sure if I should choose Food and Beverage Management because I took something similar at culinary school.

