Let's Explore!

Vanessa makes a decision about the future of her career!

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Amy: Working with you over the past week has been a fulfilling experience for me, and I hope you all reap the benefits of your experiences here. For one thing, you have proven that you are all courageous, dynamic and unique individuals. When you leave here today, I know you will each have what it takes to reach your ultimate goals. After you share your presentations, we will have a small ceremony and reception to celebrate the completion of this course. Let's begin the presentations with Vanessa.

Vanessa: Hi everyone. To start with, I'd like to thank you, Amy, and each one of you in this room for being incredibly inspirational. The past week has given me tremendous insight into the way I think. In addition, I've achieved a deeper level of honesty and discovered what my true hopes are. Before I tell you what my aspirations are, I want to say that the most useful session for me was the one on mindfulness. Moreover, learning to meditate allowed me to peer into my soul and discover the lies and fears that have hindered me from taking the next step. I have defined three clear objectives. The most immediate one is that I want return to school to get a restaurant management certificate. Finally, I also realized something surprising: I have decided I would like to start a family within the next five to seven years! I admitted to myself that I am quite driven and have a picture of what happiness and success is for me. My third objective is to create, own, and manage my own gourmet restaurant. I will register for the certificate when this course ends today!

Learning Points

Future Time Clauses: Before, After

You use time clauses to give information about time and sequence.

You use the words If, When, Before and After in time clauses.

Future time clauses explain what needs to happen or which condition needs to be satisfied before a future event can occur.

You use the first conditional with these time clauses.

Structure:

If/When/Before/After + Subject + Simple Present tense, Subject + will/be going to + Simple Present tense

Before means at an earlier time. An action in the future needs to be completed before the action introduced by the time clause can occur.

Example:

Before I tell you what my aspirations are, I want to say that I find mindfulness very useful.

After means at a later time. The action introduced by the time clause will lead to another action right after it is completed.

Example:

After you share your presentation, we will have a little celebration.

If means on the condition that ...

Example:

If I'm late again, I am going to lose my job.

When means at the time of doing something.

Example:

When Julie gets here, we'll ask her what she thinks.

Examples:

- When you leave here today, I know you will each have what it takes to reach your ultimate goals.
- After you share your presentations, we will have a small ceremony and reception to celebrate the completion of this course.
- I will register for the certificate when this course ends today!

Learning Points

Using Sequencing Connectors to Explain and Support Your Ideas

You use contrast connectors to express your position and to show another point of view.

Connectors can show a connection to what you want to say and what was said before. They can also show your position and opinion on a particular situation.

Sequencing connectors are usually placed at the beginning of a sentence and provide a logical sequence between statements, or provide a link with a previous statement or sentence.

Structure:

Initial Sentence. Sequencing Connector, + phrase. Sequencing connector, etc.

Look at the chart for some common sequencing connectors:

Sequencing Connector	Sequencing Connector
first/firstly, first of all	For one thing
second/secondly	In addition
third, in the third place	Furthermore also	Moreover
besides	Finally

Examples:

- For one thing, you have proven that you are all courageous, dynamic and unique individuals.
- In addition, I've achieved a deeper level of honesty and discovered what my true hopes are.
- Moreover, learning to meditate allowed me to peer into my soul.
- Finally, I also realized something surprising: I have decided I would like to start a family within the next five years.
